REFLECTIONS FROM PEER WORK

Existing Services are often highly gendered and binary in their approaches which can discourage community from seeking support.

Existing services do not feel adequately trained or resourced to support TGD young people.

Inclusion of TGD populations is handled on a case by case basis on and not necessarily embedded in messaging and policy.

This oversight can force members of the TGD community to remain in unsafe conditions or with unsupportive families rather than seeking support, exposing them to further personal risk.

THE WAY FORWARD?
